Composing Good Photographs

CS 178, Spring 2012

"There are no rules for good photographs, there are only good photographs."

- Ansel Adams

Outline

- the pictorial elements of photography
 - line and form
 - pattern and texture
 - tone and color
- pictorial design,
 i.e. the design in the 2D picture frame
 - symmetry and balance
 - framing
 - common compositions
- things we won't talk about today
 - situation, storyline, viewpoint, field of view, focus, lighting, exposure, color balance, post-processing

Learning good composition

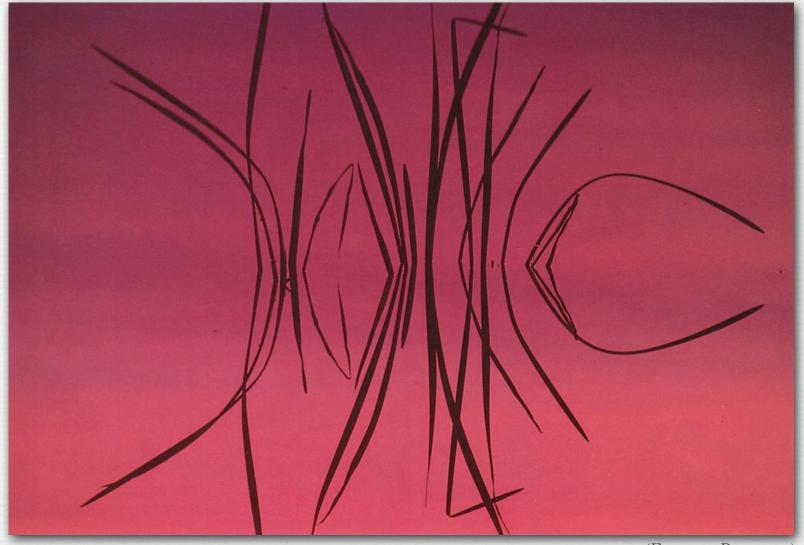

- there are no rules
 - there are only tools and heuristics
- ◆ like describing wine with words, they don't mean much
 - they merely give us a framework for thinking about issues
- the best way to learn is to take lots of pictures
 - think about the issues as you take them
 - critique your photographs, and have others critique them
- look at good photographs by others
 - famous photographs are seldom accidents;
 the photographer thought about pictorial design
 - most useful if you've also tried the same thing yourself

Lines as a pictorial element

Ansel Adams, Aspens, 1958

Arrangement of lines

(Freeman Patterson)

Lines as a decorative element

(Howard@photodelusions.wordpress.com)

Lines that lead your eye to the subject

(Freeman Patterson)

Lines that lead your eye to the subject

Hiromu Kira, The Thinker, 1930

Lines that lead your eye to the subject

• the lines don't need to be man-made, or smooth

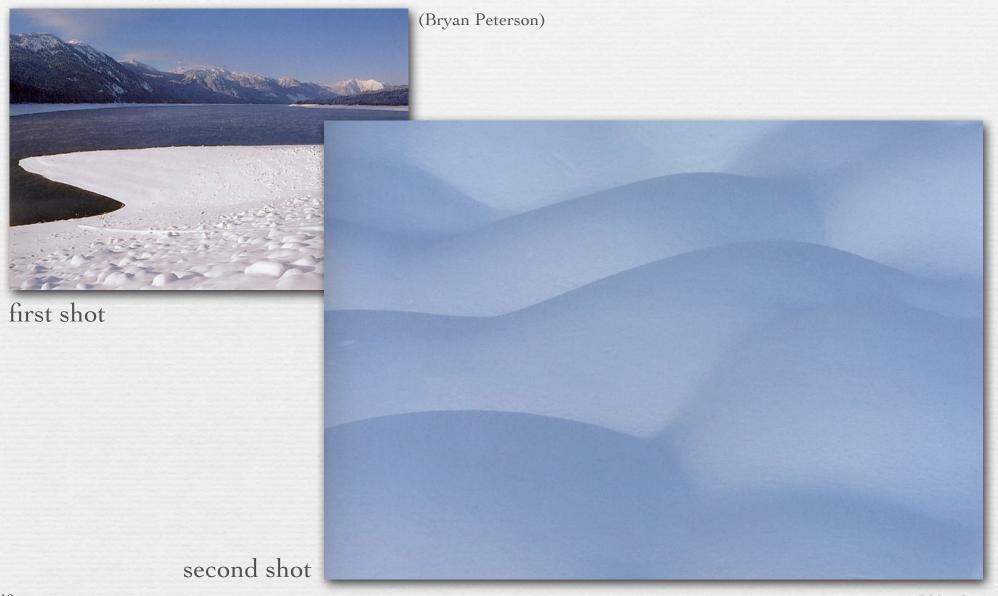

(Bryan Peterson)

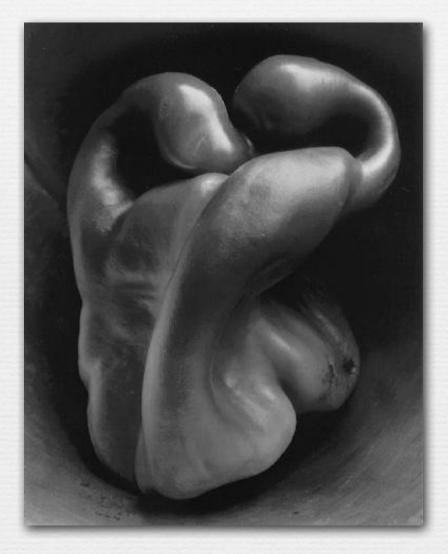

Raphael, Galatea, 1513

(Gardner)

Form - lines with meaning

Form - lines with meaning

Edward Weston, Pepper No. 30, 1930

Georgia O'Keeffe, Grey Line, 1923

Shape - readily identifiable form

backlighting draws attention to shape

(Bryan Peterson)

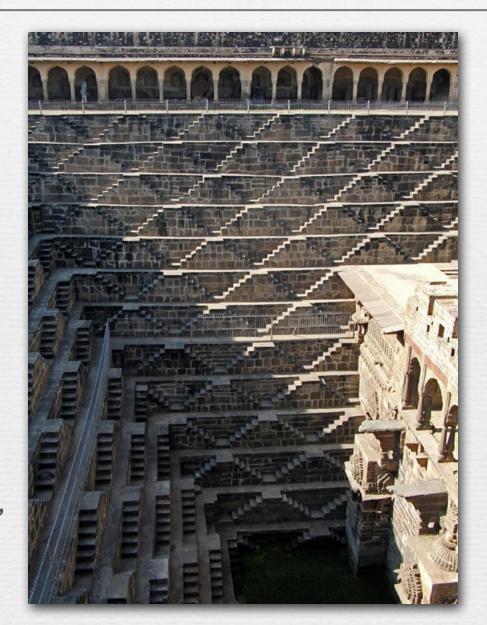

Shape - readily identifiable form

Pattern - repeated forms

(Bryan Peterson) first shot second shot

Pattern - repeated forms

Abhaneri Stepwell, Rajasthan, India

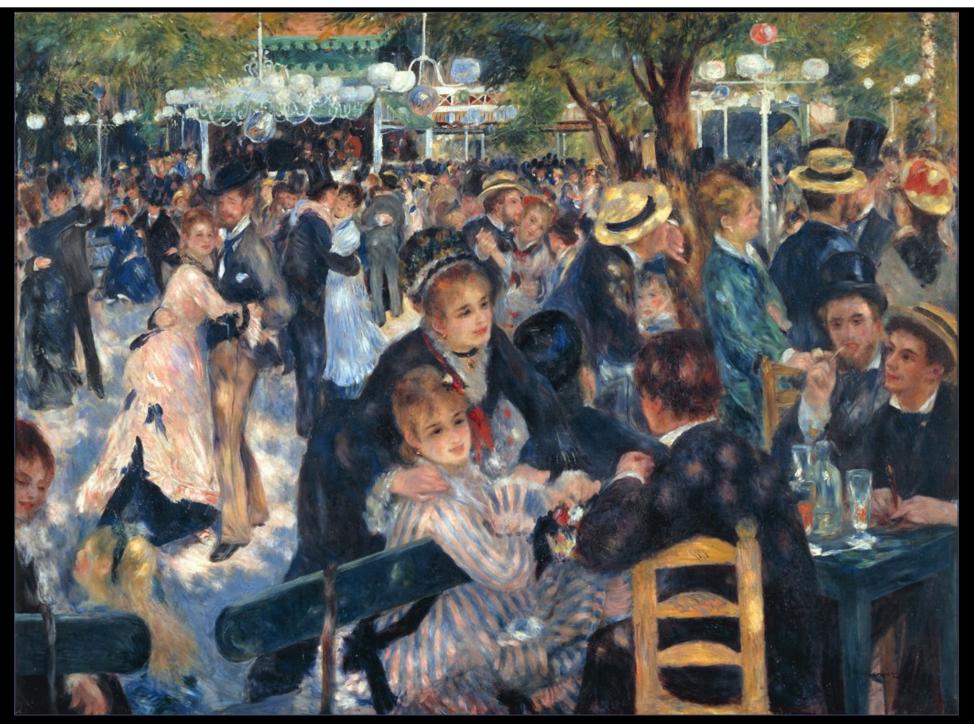

Frederick Evans, The Sea of Steps -Wells Cathedral, 1903

Louis-Émile Durandelle, Gallery of the Machines, International Exhibition of 1889, Paris

Rhythm - a looser kind of pattern

(Freeman Paterson)

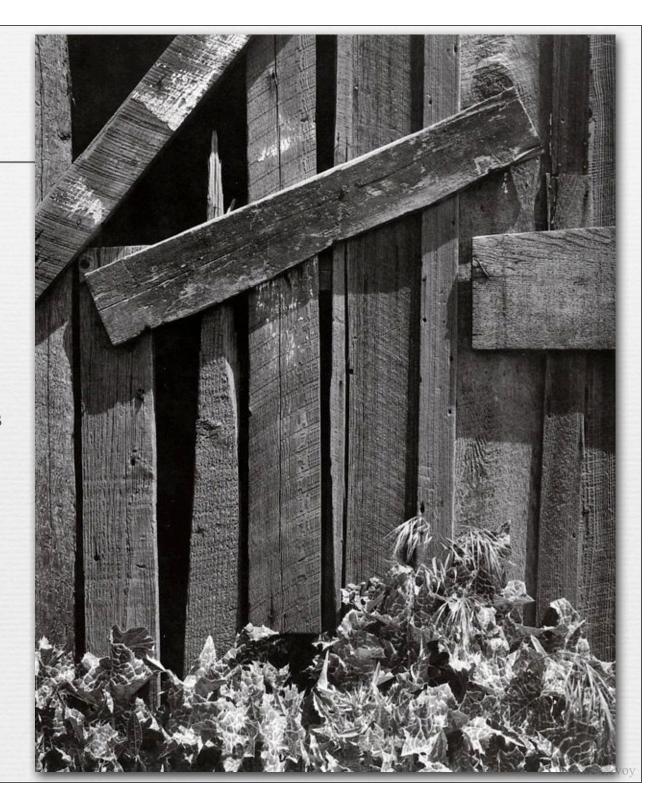

Auguste Renoir, Le Moulin de la Galette, 1876

Texture: fine patterns

- early product of f/64 club
- sharp focus, smooth papers
- reaction against Pictorialists

Ansel Adams, Boards and Thistles, 1932

Texture

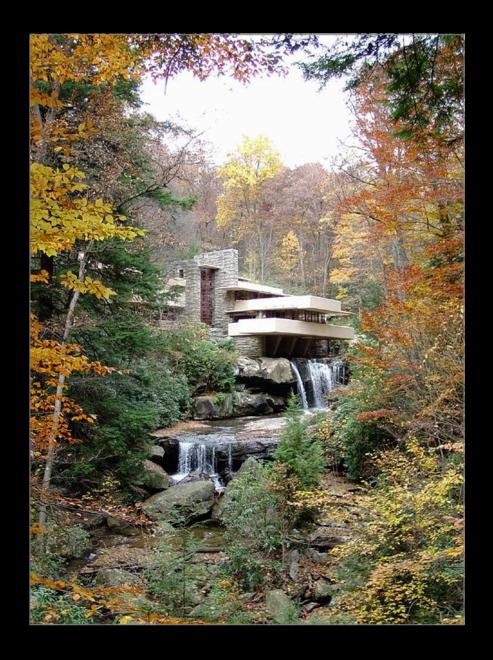

Edward Weston, Dunes, Oceano, 1936

• co-founder of f/64 club with Ansel Adams

Frank Lloyd Wright, Fallingwater, 1934

Frank Lloyd Wright, Fallingwater, 1934

Lighting as an aid to pictorial design

(London)

Fluor Garduño, Basket of Light, Guatemala, 1989

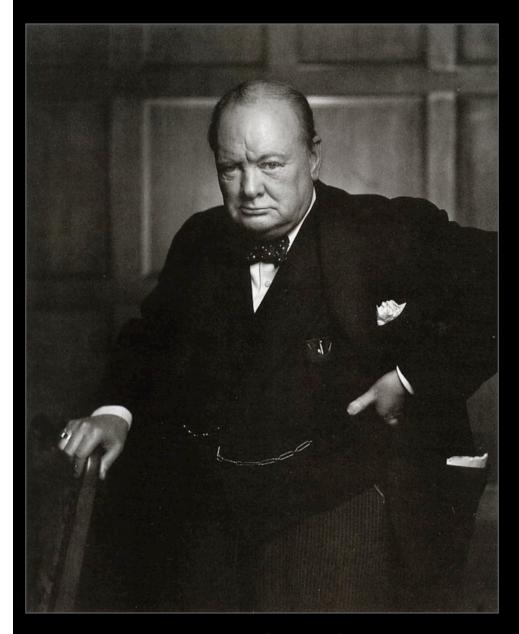

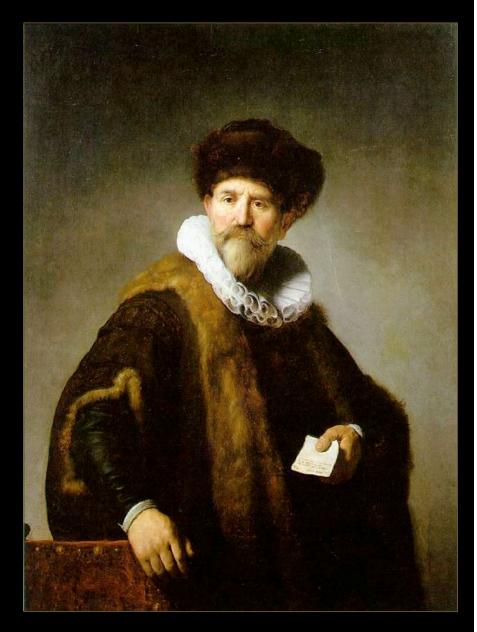

Yousuf Karsh, Winston Churchill, 1941

Rembrandt van Rijn, Self Portrait, 1660

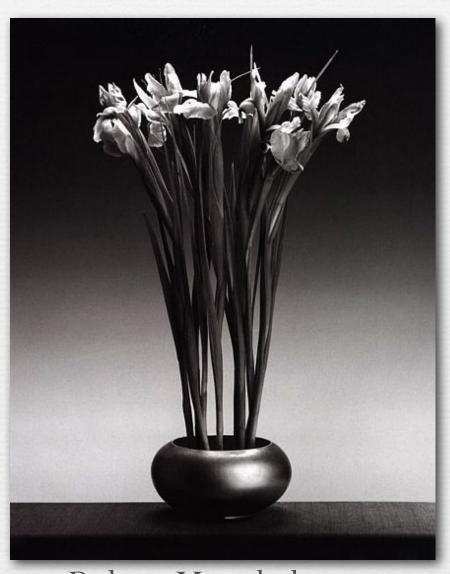

Yousuf Karsh, Winston Churchill, 1941

Rembrandt van Rijn, Portrait of Nicolaes Ruts, 1631

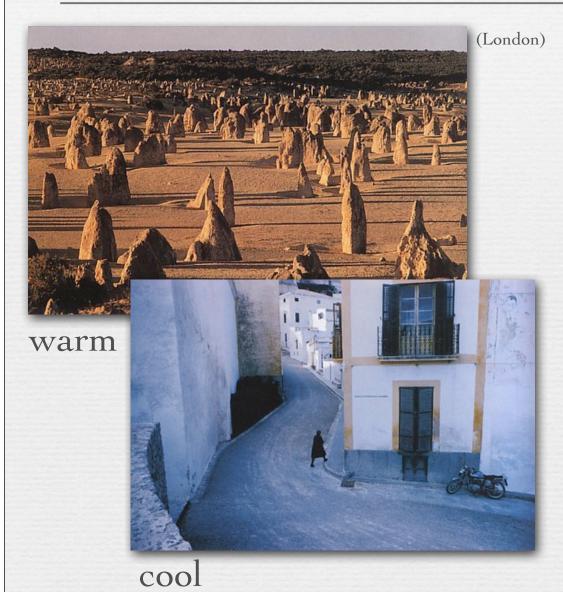

Tone as a pictorial element

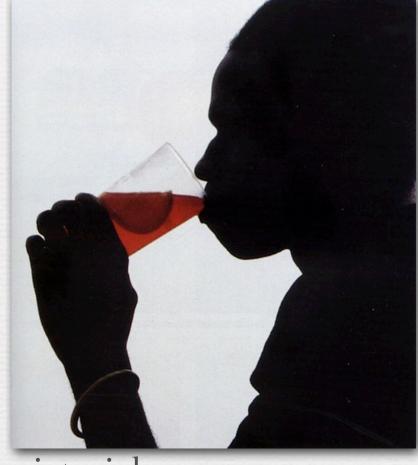

Robert Mapplethorpe

Color as a pictorial element

(Hedgecoe)

pictorial

Color as an accent

(Hedgecoe)

Encircled by color

(Hedgecoe)

Giovanni Bellini, Altarpiece of S. Zaccaria, Venice, 1505

Color as rhythmic accent

(Hedgecoe)

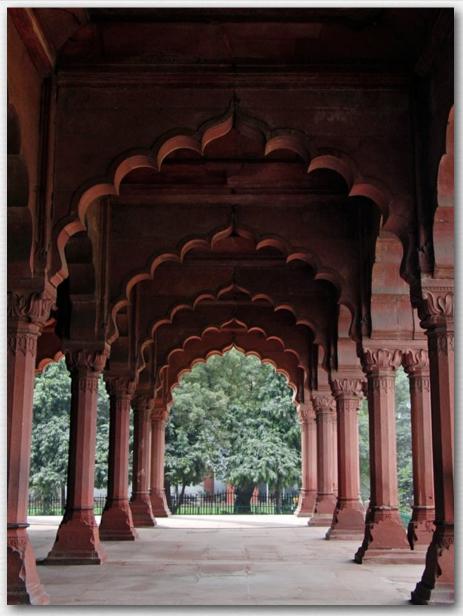

Peter Paul Rubens, The Judgement of Paris, 1636

Pictorial design

- symmetry and balance
- framing
- → common compositions

Symmetry

Arcade in Red Fort, Delhi, 2008

(Marc Levoy)

Symmetry

(Marc Levoy)

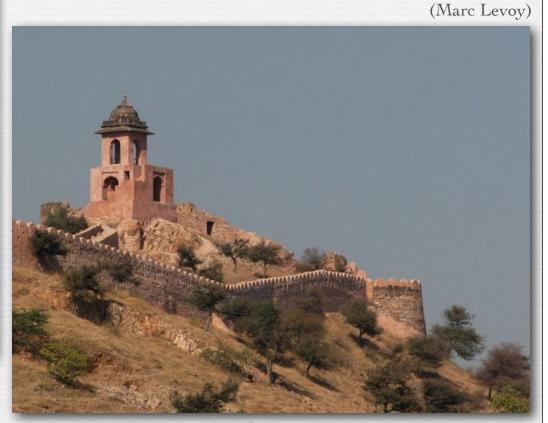

Place du Carrousel, Paris, 2009

Asymmetry

Montmartre, 2009

Rajasthan, 2008

• off-center placement of main subject underscores the asymmetry of the architecture

Balance

• symmetrical background + dynamic, unbalanced foreground

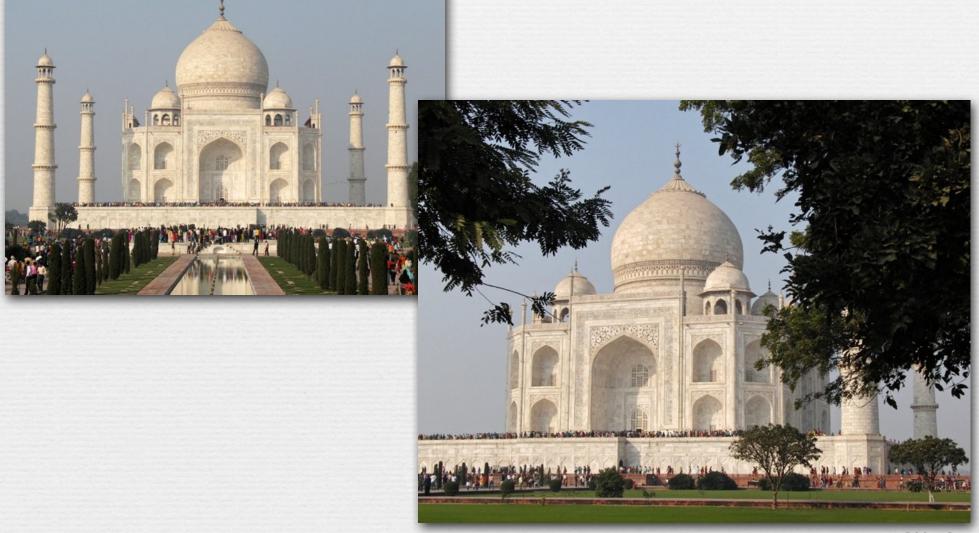

(Freeman Paterson)

Jacque-Louis David, Oath of the Horatii, 1784

Framing

(Marc Levoy)

More dynamic framing

(London)

- shadow edges complete the frame
- slashing diagonals create tension

Dennis Stock, James Dean, 1955

The picture frame

(Bryan Peterson)

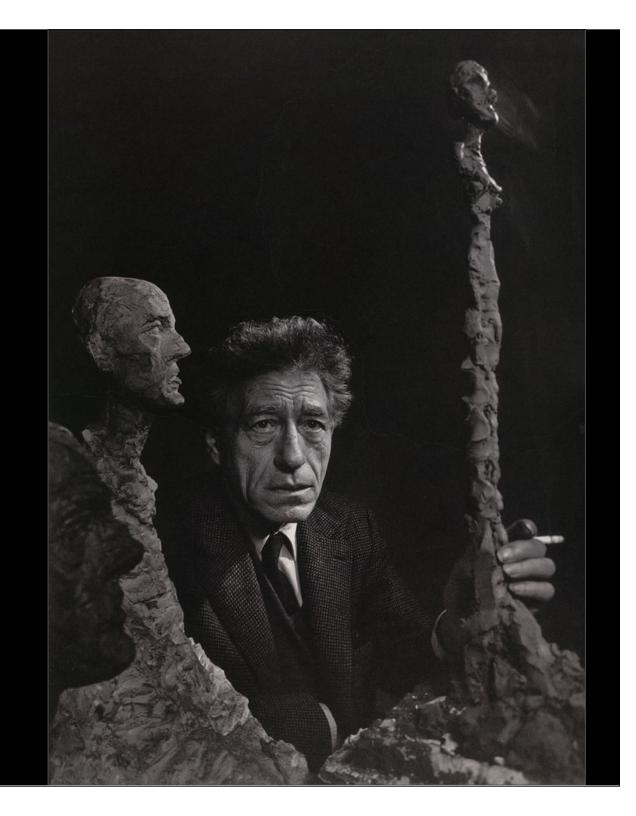

first shot

second shot

Raphael, School of Athens, 1511

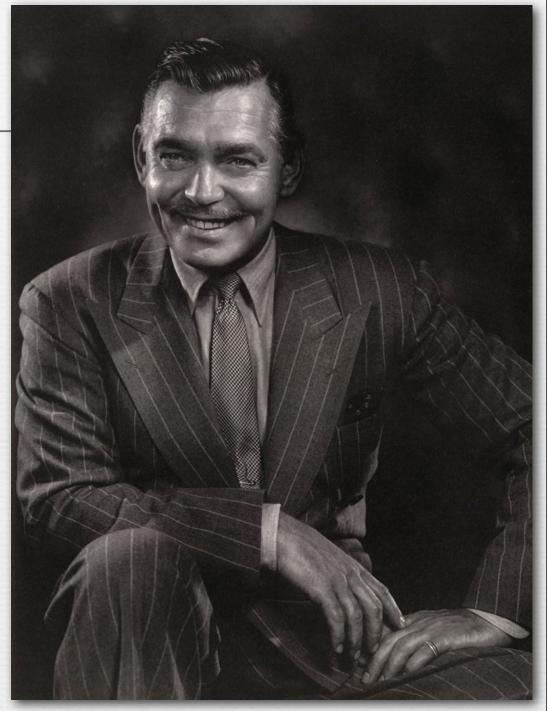

Yousuf Karsh, Alberto Giacometti, 1965

Filling the frame

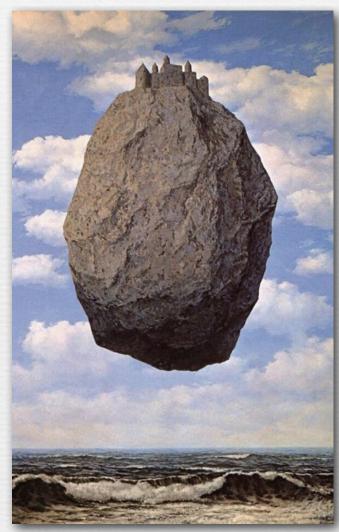

Leonardo, Mona Lisa, 1506

Yousuf Karsh, Clark Gable. 1948

or floating in space

Magritte, The Castle of the Pyranees, 1959

Bernard Faucon, The Room in Winter, 1986

Common compositions

- upright equilateral triangle
 - calm, stability, power
- → diagonal
 - tension, discord, dynamism
- → S-curve
 - motion, sensuality
 - eye flow
- rule of thirds

Raphael, Madonna with the Goldfinch, 1506

Titian, Madonna of the Pesaro Family, 1526

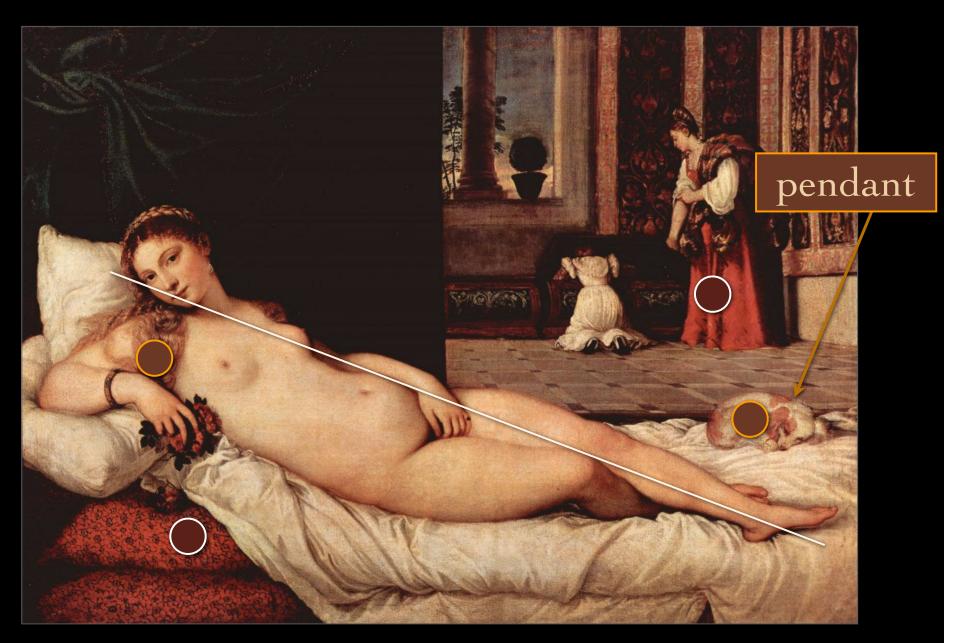

Raphael, Madonna with the Goldfinch, 1506

Titian, Madonna of the Pesaro Family, 1526

Titian, Venus of Urbino, 1538

Titian, Venus of Urbino, 1538

Photographic examples

Edward Weston, Charis Wilson Nude, 1936

Photographic examples

diagonal leading to her eye

• eye and shoulder use rule of thirds

• stems create frame within a frame partially hidden face creates mystery

Parting thoughts (from Fredo Durand)

- → simplify your picture
 - avoid cluttered backgrounds

reposition yourself

- → simplify your picture
 - avoid cluttered backgrounds

(Marc Levoy)

use a shallow depth of field

- → simplify your picture
 - avoid cluttered backgrounds

• fix it in Photoshop

- → simplify your picture
 - avoid cluttered backgrounds

• or leave it there!

- simplify your picture
 - avoid cluttered backgrounds
 - get close to your subject

 - avoid

After class, a student commented that for each example I showed today, one could easily find counter-examples. This is certainly true. My goal is not to lay down a set of rules, but to present a set of issues you should think about as you compose photographs. Feel free to break these rules. But do so consciously and with a plan.

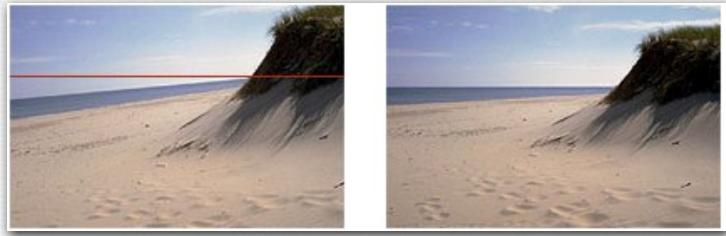

- get c
- fill the frame
- avoid compositional errors
 - don't center objects needlessly
